

MAUI HAPPENINGS.

LA DANSE A KALUANUI.

During Wednesday evening, the 6th inst., "Diamond Palace," the residence of B. D. Baldwin, Esq., again donned a bright and festive air, the occasion being the last of a trio of delightful parties, tendered this time as a farewell honor to three young ladies. The "queen of night" veneer with silver the dull gray afternoon sky, put a quietus on all fears as to attendance, and rendered tete-a-tete strolls in the beautiful garden one of the pleasing events of the evening. In the salle de danse, adorned with vines and flowers, the vivacious strains of violin, piano and harp not only caused the completion of the printed order, but inspired the addition of four extras.

Midway on the programme occurred a rather remarkable "Presentation of Medals." One of the committee of arrangements having seated the three young ladies in a semi-circle and called the assembly to order, delivered a nonsensical, pathetic and at times affectionate address, in presenting a "silver" star to each of the departing fair ones—the other two committeemen officiating in tying the pink ribbons. The first was admonished to always remember that she "voss here this evening," the second was deplored with, because she "could not grant another occasion at Kaluanui," and the third was congratulated for she "May B. here again in the happy future."

In Eastern watering places the summer wail has been "O for a man!" but on Maui success or failure in social affairs depends upon the ladies. Judging by this, as well as by other standards, the April party at Kaluanui was a most successful event, and it was with regret that adieu was uttered in place of the usual "aufwiedersehen" to three who have taken prominent parts in the winter gaieties of Makawao.

FIRE AT PAIA.

About 2 A. M. on the 7th inst. a fire broke out in the Chinese quarter of Paia. Four buildings were consumed, including the store of Kim Faa, his two-story dwelling house and two other small structures adjoining. Like all matters in which the Mongolian is concerned, the origin of the conflagration is shrouded in mystery. The natives tell a story about the overturning of a lamp, and the Chinese hint darkly that it was an incendiary act, the door of the deed being unknown.

Deputy Sheriff Andrews was on the spot with some of the police and rendered all the assistance possible. The natives present willingly lent a helping hand, but the Chinese themselves stood aloof, and as in the Wilder warehouse fire at Kahului, seemed disinclined to act the part of good citizens and "battle with the fire-fend."

Kim Faa carried on the most extensive trade in Chinese goods of all the stores in the village, and, it is said, he had an insurance of $2000 upon his property, the two-story house alone being valued at $1500. During the disaster he was absent at his corn ranch in Kula, and did not learn of the event until the following day.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

At 4 A. M., the 8th inst., John Go-veia, a Portuguese laborer of Paia Plantation, started to work as usual, requesting his boy to bring his breakfast at 7 o'clock. About 5 A. M. some of the plantation people discovered a hat and coat lying on the bank of the reservoir, just below the mill, and upon further investigation discovered the body of the Portuguese in the water. It is a matter of conjecture, whether it is a case of suicide, or whether heart disease or some other internal trouble seized him while taking his morning bath. He leaves a widow and five children to mourn his loss.

KODAKS.

On Friday, the 11th inst., Dr. Herbert of Wailuku, while on his way to visit a patient, had one of his horses fall with him. In being thrown out, he was quite seriously bruised and badly shaken up.

D. Douglass, the popular blacksmith of Kahului, has recently brought his family to reside in the village, which, it is said, will form a pleasing addition to society in Maui's seaport.

Mrs. C. B. Makee of Wailuku leaves to-day per Claudine for her new home on Kauai. She will be much missed in Wailuku social affairs.

By the same steamer, Mrs. C. M. V. Forster of Paia accompanies her friend, Miss Voss, to Honolulu, intending to spend a month there visiting her parents and old friends.

Rev. V. H. Kiteat of Lahaina will hold service to-morrow in the English Church at Wailuku.

Rev. T. L. Gulick of Makawao departed this week for Hilo, intending to exchange pulpits for a short period with Rev. E. P. Baker, who arrived on Maui by the last steamer.

It is learned with deep regret that Mr. and Mrs. Forrest of Spreckelsville are about to remove to a new home on Hawaii. During the short time of their residence on Maui, they have made a number of warm friends.

Mr. C. E. Coville of Honolulu arrived on Maui per last Claudine much broken in health. He is to spend an indefinite period with his friend Mr. W. F. Pogue, hoping that the bracing air of Haleakala will soon restore him to health.

It is pleasant to note that both Mr. H. G. Treadway and Judge Richardson of Wailuku are round and about again.

STRAY NOTES.

On Saturday, the 23d instant, the Fruit and Taro Company of Wailuku held its annual meeting. The following officers were chosen: E. H. Bailey, President; John Richardson, Vice-President; N. Kepoika, Secretary; W. O. Smith, Treasurer;

H. G. Treadway, Auditor. Through the skillful efforts of Messrs. Smith and Bailey, this company is now on a solid financial basis, some prominent Honolulu and Maui people having recently invested in its stock. It not only controls considerable of the best taro land on Maui, but owns a fine valley in Molokai, and has an arrangement with other producers of taro there for the purchase of their products. On Monday, the 4th inst., Mr. Bailey settled all outstanding debts of the company on Maui, Mr. Smith doing a similar act on Oahu.

The Maui Cattle Trust are soon to open a butcher shop in Wailuku, of which, it is reported, that R. von Tempky, Esq., is to have charge. The Trust already have two flourishing markets in Makawao and two in Hana.

Recently a rifle club has been formed in Hana district, of which Mr. W. von Graevemeyer, formerly captain of the Makawao club, is president. It is hoped that this new organization will revive the "drooping spirits" of the Wailuku Gun Club and the Maui Rifle Association.

Last Saturday, in Lahaina, the ball game resulted in a victory for the Lahainaites, the score being 17 to 5 against the Waikapu. Dr. Davidson, of Lahaina, acting as umpire. The defeat was owing to the absence of Captain Edmunds and several of the best players of Waikapu. It is to be hoped that the latter association will not long remain "in the soup," but will "brace up" and win the next rubber.

The Catholic church in Wailuku is being painted.

Recently Dr. George Herbert and R. H. Flemmer, of Wailuku, made a little hunting excursion to sandy Olowalu, intending to bag innumerable plover with which to regale Wailuku friends on their return. They have returned, but plover seem to be a minus quantity, and the popular question in town is: "How about those plover?" Various answers are made, that the Kinan was chartered to take their birds to Honolulu, fearing to glut the Maui market with a surplus of game or fearing lest they would ruin the digestion of their friends, they removed the temptation as far as possible from them, etc.

Some of Maui's racing stock may now be seen speeding along the roads of Lahaina and Waikapu preparatory to the greatest sporting event of the year—the 4th of July races—under the auspices of the Maui Racing Association.

Lahaina, too, sometimes arouses and gives pleasurable social affairs. Mr. Hanneberry, of Olowalu, gave an enjoyable party not long ago, and on Saturday evening, the 19th of March, at the palatial residence of Hon. W. Y. Horner, of Lahaina, occurred a most unique and delightful affair. It was originally intended as a card party, but gradually grew into what might be termed "The Haphazard Pic."

Hand-painted programmes with a noble red and gold game rooster standing on a gilt gangette announced the celebration of the victory of the Haphazard Club over the Pali Malls. The entertainment was of decided literary caste, and of an original nature, at that. Original essays, poems, music and songs, chanting the victory at croquet of the former club over the latter. The grand finale was the "Haphazard Pic," whose crust was made of beautiful flowers, with a veritable game bird standing upon them. When the guests of the evening pulled at the protruding ribbons, mallets, balls and all the paraphernalia of the croquet arena made their appearance. Record once more a most festive occasion for Lahaina.

It seems that Spreckelsville boasts a young men's dancing club, and during this evening at Spreckelsville Hall will occur one of their parties.

In the Bulletin of March 31st occurs a demand for an apology "for the ungentlemanly reference to the Minister of the Interior" from the author of Maui Happenings. For a note written on behalf of the Makawao Road Board. The Maui correspondent does not indulge in such references or in political remarks of any nature, but would respectfully refer the Bulletin to the editorial sanctum of the ADVERTISER.

SHIPPING NEWS AND WEATHER.

The Waimanalo arrived as usual on Tuesday; the Claudine very early on Wednesday and the Mokoli about 9 A. M. on the same day.

On the 3d inst. the schooner Anna, Captain Williams, left Kahului for San Francisco, with 5,280 bags of sugar. Mrs. Toogood and daughter were passengers.

At 6 P. M. on the 6th inst., the bark Newsboy was seen entering the harbor of Kahului with all sails set. She made the rapid trip of four days from Honolulu and comes for Paia sugar. Captain Johnson and family were aboard.

Weather.—Rains nearly all the week in Kula, delightful in Makawao and still very dry in Wailuku. Maui, April 9, 1892.

[The words referred to by our correspondent and the Bulletin were added in this office and should have read as written—"mahope paha," by-and-bye, perhaps, without reference to a Minister or any other person.]

French Reciprocity.

The American products admitted by the convention under the French minimum duties are canned meats, fresh and dried table fruits, except raisins; rough-hewn or sawn timber; wood-paving blocks, stave wood for casks, hops, pears and compressed apples. In return the United States places hides, sugar and molasses imported from France and her colonies on the free list.

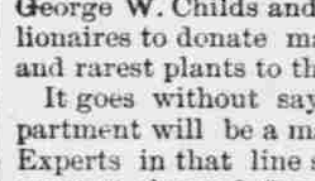

Girls' Industrial Home.

Plain sewing and dressmaking at the Industrial Home, near Kawaiaha Church. Also, girls will go out by the day to families, to do sewing and dressmaking, housekeeping, care of children and lomilomi.

FLOWERS BY THE MILLION.

The Wonderful Display to Be Made at the Columbian Exposition.

"Father of the Chrysanthemum" and "Old Uncle John" are pet names for John W. Thorpe, chief of the horticultural department of the World's fair of 1893.

JOHN W. THORPE.

George W. Childs and several other millionaires to donate many of their best and rarest plants to the fair.

It goes without saying that this department will be a magnificent success. Experts in that line say it will be the greatest show of fine flowers ever seen in the world. A million pansies, a million roses and uncounted millions of flowers, plants and palms of all climes will be shown. There will be sixteen acres given to this exhibit and ten of them will be on the wooded island on which the mammoth Horticultural building is to stand. The shores of the island will be left wild for scenic effect and the waters around it will be bright with water lilies and other aquatic plants, while the interior will be artistically planted with lilies, rhododendrons, roses and other flowers.

Jay Gould now has the most complete botanic garden in the United States, containing many hundred exotic plants to be seen nowhere else in North America, and of these he agrees to contribute the very finest to the fair. Mr. Thorpe was the organizer of the Society of American Florists, has done much work in his line in England and is known to horticulturists all over the world. When he took up the chrysanthemum it was described as "small and colorless." There are now 2,000 varieties catalogued, with a bewildering variety of shapes and colors. When he took up the carnation there were but three varieties, now there are a thousand. He has been in the business all his life, and his friends are enthusiastic over his success at Chicago.

A Sentinella. This enterprising little journal has already enlarged and presents a very neat and creditable appearance in its new dress. It is printed with large clear type on paper of a good quality, and has built up already a considerable subscription list and advertising patronage. It presents considerable local and foreign news, and is well edited. Our young contemporary has made a fair start and we wish it a successful career.

NO FRIEND OF BRET HARTE'S.

A Californian Who Is Opposed to the Novelist's Existence.

On the first day of January a San Francisco paper published a series of replies by prominent citizens to the general question, "What is the best thing that could happen for California this year?" Jeremiah Lynch (both names highly suggestive) gave this:

As a Californian and a patriot it seems to me that the death of Bret Harte would be the most fortunate happening the state of 1892 could record. So long as he wields a pen we continue wild and woolly. He is a blot on our civilization, a dragon on our progress. It is true he has given San Francisco a place on the literary atlas of the world, but merely as a local habitation of his dramatic persona. There is no denying Bret Harte's genius, but he retards immigration. He has excellent style, but he prevents the sale of our raisins. California claret might vie with St. Julien but for "Mr. Hawkins," our maidens could be introduced to her majesty but for the "Outcasts of Poker Flat."

He has accentuated our earthquakes, emphasized our aborigines, exaggerated our manners and made the "Heavenly Bodies" rampant. Once dead the world will realize our existence, forget our deficiencies and purchase our products.

Mr. Lynch is a scholar and a member of the last grand jury. He wrote a work on Egyptian travels a few years ago which was published in London. It is, therefore, scarcely necessary to add that his jeremiad on Bret Harte has created a sensation. It is more than likely, however, that he is mistaken. Illinois made her greatest growth in the two decades (1840-60) when all the country was languishing at the "stickers." South central Indiana had a tremendous boom while Eggleston's novels were selling at their highest. Real estate in Duluth made a great advance just after Proctor Knott's famous speech. It is ten times better for the world to laugh at a section than not to notice it at all.

The Career of Jules Breton.

At the recent Society art sale, New York city one picture was sold for $45,500. It was the "First Communion," the most celebrated of the numerous well known paintings of Jules Breton, the great artist. He lost his mother at an early age, and it was a source of wonder to him why God should have taken his devoted mother away. He began his art work in an attempt to copy the prints from a book which he had picked up somewhere. He also developed a very inconvenient fondness for decorating his room with crude copies. Finally his genius was recognized, and David, the great painter, became his master. Thereafter his career was rapidly upward.

There is Always War.

People who predict war have the safest thing in the prophecy business, for there is always war in some part of the world, and it is very rare that ten years pass without a big war in some country. The Italian war of 1859, the American civil war and the Russo-Austrian war of 1866 engrossed popular attention so thoroughly that many people did not know that the Tai-Ping war was in progress in China. It is still considered a small affair. Yet it cost 7,000,000 lives.

Bats Mince Pies at Fourpence.

As he grows older Gladstone grows shorter. He is at present not so tall by two inches as when in his prime. His wife's recipe for mince pies has just been made public, and the fact that the grand old man eats these pies and thrives on them shows that they are good.

HON. NAHINU IN TOWN.

He is in a Little Trouble for Visiting the Lepers Without a Permit.

Hon. G. S. Nahinu of Molokai crossed the Pali leading to the Leper Settlement one day last week. He went to inform the lepers of the different measures he wishes to introduce at the coming session of the Hawaiian Legislature. After holding street meetings, he went from house to house, so as to be sure that even those who were lying in bed could learn what he intended to do for their welfare. Mr. Nahinu's intentions may have been good, but as he went without a permit from Mr. R. W. Meyer, the Superintendent, he has got himself into trouble. Mr. Meyer brought a charge of trespass against the Representative elect from Molokai.

The case was to come up before Judge Kalanokalani on Saturday morning, but Mr. Nahinu asked to have it postponed to allow him to come to Honolulu and ask the Board of Health for permission to bring 100 lepers as his witnesses, whom he probably expects to swear that he had not been to the Settlement. Mr. Nahinu arrived in Honolulu on Saturday morning from Molokai by the Waimanalo.

Quite a number of Honolulu people hastened to the Post Office on Saturday to get their mail off in the U. S. S. Iroquois. The officers of the vessel sent their own letters ashore to be placed in the next Coast mail to be sent on to Australia. The latter evidently do not anticipate a quick trip to San Francisco.

Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock an alarm was rung in for a fire in a coffee house in Beretania street, near the Kaimakapili Church. Engines No. 1 and 2 responded promptly, but the fire was extinguished before their arrival. A defective flue was the cause of alarm. There was very little damage.

YOU, or SOMEONE of your family are, no doubt, troubled with headaches.

If you are in doubt what to use to relieve it, possibly some one of the following remedies might be of benefit to the sufferer:

MEGRIMINE CAPSULES consist of a combination of several of the best known medicines obtained from the vegetable kingdom.

WAMPOL'S BROMO-PY-RINE, a combination of bromides with antipyrine is, no doubt, an excellent remedy. It resembles the Granulated Citrate of Magnesia, the well known laxative. It is administered in the same manner. It has an agreeable taste; and is considered especially useful in case of headache—attended with mental exhaustion and nervous depression.

PHENACETINE TABLETS AND ANTIPYRINE TABLETS are well known remedies and are considered safe and efficient in most cases.

BROMO-CAFFEINE AND BROMO-SODA are remedies which have a very large sale. They are particularly good in nervous complaints and have been found useful as preventatives in seasickness.

There is only one way of using these remedies for latter trouble and that is to commence a day or two before going to sea.

EYE GLASSES OR SPECTACLES are sometimes found to be in many instances, the remedy for headache, poor eyesight being the cause of that trouble. Call at the new Drug Store for any one of these articles should you need them.
